The kind old friendly feelings!
We have their spirit yet,
Though years and years have passed, old friends,
Since thou and I last met!
And something of Gray Time's advance
Seems in thy fading eye,
Yet 'tis the same good honest glance
I bosed in times gone by—

I loved in times gone by— Ere the kind old friendly feelings Had ever brought one sigh!

The warm old friendly feelings! The warm old friendly feelings:
Oh, who need not be told
No other links can bind the heart
Like those loved links of old!
Thy hand I joy'd in youth to clasp
The touch of age may show;
Yet'tis the same true hearty grasp
I loved so long ago—
Ere the last old friendly feelings
Unit much one tear to flow:

Had taught one tear The kind old friendly feelings! Oh, seem they e'er less dear,

Because some recollections
May meet us with a tear?
Though hopes we shared—the early beams Thou h hopes we shared—the early beams
Ambition showed our way—
Have fled, my friends, like morning dreams,
Hefore Truth's searching ray,
Still we've kept the kind old feelings
That blessed our youthful day!

John Howard Payne.

BY COLLEY CIBBER.

John Howard Payne was born in the city of New York, on the 9th of June, 1792. He made his first appearance on the stage, in the city of his birth, as "Young Norval," on the evening of the 24th of February, 1809, Park Theatre. His success was complete. From New York he went to Boston—made his debut there on the 3d of April, 1809, as Norval. On the 17th of May, 1809, Mr. Payne, then master, commenced a second engagement in New York; for six nights the receipts averaged five hundred dollars a night. His benefit yielded seven hundred and fifty-five dollars. Before Master Payne adopted the stage, he published a weekly paper called the Thespian Mirror, which, as the production of a boy, justly excited admiration. In Schenectady, he afterwards published a second weekly paper called the Pastime. He was then but sixteen years of age.
In 1811 he appeared in Philadelphia, and shortly afterwards he visited England, and made a successful debut at Drury Lane Theatre on the 4th of June, 1813. While there his company was eagerly sought after, and he had the honor of being complimented by Benjamin West, and others of high standing, both in literature, art, and the drama. Mr. Payne soon gave up the stage—indeed, he was compelled from physical causes to do so; and finally literary pursuits, particularly those connected with the drams, occupied his time and attention. In the year 1826-7, Mr. Payne edited, with great credit, in London, a periodical work called the Opera Glass, devoted to the drama, arts, and music. The history of Mr. Payne, of his productions, his transatlantic career, are matters which cannot be even alluded to in a notice of this description. Of his western adventures, his captivity among the Indians, his being engaged in the Indian de-partment at Washington, his being appointed as Consul to Tunis, &c., our readers are already conversant. These are the bright sides of an author's life. Alas! the dark ones are hid in still darker night; the hours of misery, days of torture, nights of sleepless agony, poverty and want, ruin and despair, are the mysteries of authorship in our land. Mr. Payne is the author of the following plays: Oswali of Athens; Richelieu, or a Broken Heart; Charles the Second; Procrastination; Married and Single; Plots at Home; Woman's Revenge; All for the Best; Brutus, or the Fall of Tarquin; Virginia, or Patrician Perfidy. Dramas:

Spanish Husband; Terese, or the Orphan of Geneva; Norah, or the Girl of Erin; Adeline, or Seduction; The Two Galley Slaves; The Rival Monarchs; Paoli; Solitary of Mount Savage; Ali Pacha; The Inseparables; The Guilty Mother; Man of the Black Forest; Madame de Berri; The Festival of St. Marks; The Bridge of Kehl; The Judge and the Attorney; The Mill of the Lake; Mazeppa; Rovido, the Neapolitan; The Italian Bride, in four acts. Operas: Clara, the Maid of Milan; The White Maid; The Tyrolese Veasan; Visilendenes; England's Old Days. Farces: Triccondeau; The Post Chaise; Twas I; Mrs. Smith; Love in Humble Life; The Lancers; Grand Papa; Peter Smirk; Not Invited; Romulus, a tragedy.

THE PLAGUE .- The citizens of New Orleans are begining to manifest much alarm at the approach of a new and terrible disease, known as the plague, and which is represented as being &c., &c. more terrific and devastating than the Asiatic cholera. The Boston Medical Journal, in an article upon the subject, remarks:

"It is certain, from accounts received both here and in England, that the true plague has been introduced into Madeira, and its work has been really appalling. The question has frequently been agitated, Will that dreadful disease ever reach this continent? There is reason to believe it will; the wonder is why it has not already. Our commercial intercourse is extensive with various ports of Africa and the Asiatic shores of the Mediteranean, where this great scourge is never dead or dying, but simply reposing from one period to another, like a fatigued giant, to gather new strength for a renewal of slaughter. Should it come, it may be hoped there will be found more science and a stronger barrier of medical skill to meet and disarm it of its terrors than have been exhibited in tropical climates, or in the filthy, scourge-inviting regions of Moslem Turkey. Plague appertains to the Arab in this age; and same condition of things exists as characterizes their mode of life, their social condition, and the absence of all common-sense efforts to avert or arrest it, it will have an abiding foot-

We trust the folly of publishing books of astronomy will be presently abandoued, and celes-tial bulletins substituted. While the book drags through the press, a whole constellation rolls into sight; comets turn up unaccountably; and nebula resolve themselves into stars. A periodical, weekly it ought to be, though monthly might answer, would more nearly keep pace with the astrial de-velopments. The interval between Mars and Jupiter the astronomer regards as a sort of spheric placer, where he may at any moment beguile his ennui by grappling with a planet incognito, and dragging her out to light. The whole female Olympus is undoubtedly thereabouts. From the days of Piazzi to those of Gasparis, we read little else than of those fair strollers of the skies. Fifteen or sixteen have been detected and placed in the nominative case; and Prof. Luther, of the observatory at Bille, near Dusseldorf, has just ferreted out another resembling a star of the eleventh magnitude, and given it a definite position, if not a name. A reference to Ovid's Metamorphoses will, as usual, supply the latter. Thus, with the developments of the last three months in celestial matters, the labors of Bond and Gasparis and Luther, all existing treatises are rendered incomplete; and the necessity of a Planetary Times demonstrated. Who will furnish the desideratum? [New York Times.

The telegraphic wire was struck, near Galena last week, by atmospheric lighting, and melted for about three hundred yards, and more or less injured for half a mile. A spectator who saw the stroke described the electrical exhibition as a chain of fire stretching both ways as far as he could see across the landscape.

Protection from Lightning.

The undersigned, being the duly appointed Agent of Spratt's Electrican and Electro-Metallurgest Legitimes of Spratt's Electrican and Electro-Metallurgest Legitimes appeared to the protectors, and Electro-positive elements combined in their manufacture; thus rendering them equal to copper as conductors. They are in ten-feet lengths, with accurately-fitted brass-seriew connecting joints, an entire new style of metallic (patented) attachments, for brick or frame buildings; also, glass isolaters, of a novel and ingenious construction, (patented,) forming a lock; the whole mounted with a solid platinum sliver point, (patented,) twelve inches long, surrounded at the base with three angular negative magnets, which possess the power, to an extraordinary extent, of discharging the opposite elements of the most fearful thunderstorm, and embrace the entire perfection of science up to the present time; the whole constituting the most magnificent and perfect silent conductor ever presented to the public.

Safety has not been compromised by affording these excellent rods at such low rates; the greatest attention has been given to their construction, so as to be readily attached. The astonishing power of the negative magnets, in discharging the air of its opposite elements, has been deenly demonstrated by the Electrometer, when unmagnetized points have shown but slight results, though placed under the same conditions. In fact, they gather and silently discharge electricity from the atmosphere when you would scarcely suspect any being present.

These improvements being secured by double letters patent, you are hereby cautioned against laying yourselves liable, by purchasing of those who are not authorized, or who are substituting inferior imitations. All agents duly appointed can show their certificates. Have good rods or none.

I do hereby certify that I have app lied various powerful themical re-agents to Spratt's Patent Points for Lightning-Rods, and that the results of these experiments convince me that they will resist the action of atmospheric causes, and that they will resist the action of amospheric escases, and thereby preserve the extremity sharp—a condition most es-ential to protection against lightning. The reagents used in the above experiments were a solution of chloride of so-lium, (common salt,) acetic acid, sulphuric acid, and hydro-chloric acid. With the first, there was no action on the netal; with the several acids, there was very slight—a fact sufficient to show that atmospheric influences would have no sensible effect.

Cincago, September 3, 1850.

This may certify that I have examined, somewhat critically James Spratt's Patent Lightning Rods, and that I am of opinion that it is constructed on scientific principles. For combining durability, cheapness, and efficacy, I deem it equal, and I think superior, to any other rod ever offered for my inspection.

Prof. JAS. V. Z. BLANEY. equal, and I think superior, to any other rod ever offered for my inspection.

Augusta, (Ga.) November 11, 1850.

This will certify that I have examined the Lightning Rods, Metallic Points, and Isolating Attachments, manufactured by Mr. Spratt, and regard them as constructed in conformity to the general laws of the electric fluid; and the metallic compound constituting the Points, as promising, from the result of several tests to which they were submitted, to resist for years the action of those atmospheric causes most likely to corrode them.

A. MEANS, Prof. Phys. Sc., Emory College, Ga., and Prof. Chem. and Pharm., Medical College, Ga.

The Lightning Conductors put up by Mr. Henry M. Smith, of this city, on the plan of Mr. Spratt, appear to me to be very well devised; and, in point of mechanical construction, are the best I have ever seen.

It is to be hoped that the use of these Rods may become general, as an important auxiliary defence against a danger

WILMINGTON BUARDING SCHOOL

FOR BOYS.—This institution is situated in one of the healthiest parts of the city of Wilmington, entirely beyond the settled portions of the town. The uniform healthfulness of the location may be inferred from the fact that, since the establishment of the School, about twenty-eight years, very few cases of serious indisposition have occurred among the pupils, and not a single death either here, or from diseases contracted while here.

The course of instruction includes, besides the ordinary English branches, Natural Philosophy, Cheatistry, Physiology, History, Rhetoric, the various branches of Mathematics, and the Latin, Greek, and French Languages. Particular attention is paid to the higher Mathematics and their application to Mechanics and Engineering; the latter and Surveying are taught practically by field operations, with the use of appropriate instruments. Lectures on Natural Philosophy and Chemistry, in which all the important principles are illustrated by experiments, are regularly delivered before the students.

As the object is to make the instruction as thorough and practical as possible, no expense has been spared in providing suitable apparatus. It is believed that, in this respect, the Institution will compare favorably with any similar one in the country. A carefully selected library, of more than one thousand volumes, containing works on the various branches of Literature and Science, furnishes ample reading matter; while a Laboratory, fully supplied with apparatus and tests, contains all that is necessary for practical instruction in Chemical Manipulation.

The school year commenced on the third Second-day (Monday) of the Ninth month, (September.) and is divided into four quarters of eleven weeks each, leaving a vacation of two months, from about the middle of the Seventh month (July).
